There was a great lack of rooting by the 2,000 enthusiasts at the game yesterday, and that in all probability had a great deal to do with the result.

Visiting teams always look with dread upon the rooters, for in many cases they are responsible for the success of the home team. This was practically demon strated by the rooting that was done last year and which helped the Cherubs to win numbers of games.

This season, however, there seems to have been a quietus placed upon the rooters, and the old stand-by, Jack McDonough was removed from the bleacheries yesterday, because he grew too enthuslastic over the game, and was too vectors.

People who go to a ball game, go for all the fun there is in it. And a close contest naturally puts the admirer of the game into an excited condition. There allow him to give vent to his feelings more, than hearty, noisy demonstrations, and if that is refused him then the pleasures of base-ball are lost, and he visits the park once a week when he might have been a daily visitor.

should seek some quiet, shady spot be-neath a spreading tree near the low, sweet music of a babbling brook, far from the madding crowd, and not ven-ture near a base-ball park.

The game yesterday was marred of its pleasures to the real lovers of base-ball

Lancaster took the lead on the start without any music from the Glee Club They pounded Sparks all over the lot and over the fence in the first three innings for seven hits and four runs, and the crowd sat by in almost breathless silence while they did it.

Nor did the crowd encourage Sparks of the other Cherubs a little bit when they were on the inside: neither did they try to weaken big West, the heavyweight twirler for Lancaster, but everything was allowed to go by default, so far as the cranks were concerned and in consequence, to all intents and purposes, the game went by the board because the cranks failed to properly encourage the

And then, too, Umpire Brennan was a little shy of his favors, for on all close calls the visitors got the best of the deal.

Old man Stockedale relieved Sparks in the fourth inning ,after the game had been lost, and the rooters, urged on by Jack McDonough, who had secured a seat on the fence, awoke after it was too late. From this point not a run was made and but one safe hit came from Stocks' dewhile the big four of the Lancasters loomed up mightily.

In the eighth Latenberg and Seybold scored. The former singled and the latter doubled, and both crossed on Dundon's safety. This ended it, however, and another game went away from the Cherubs and dropepd them into second place on the list with Norfolk very

RELIGIOUS EQUALITY IN CUBA.

The Co-operation of the Methodists to Secure the Same Asked-A Knotty Question Concerning Bishop Wilson.

BALTIMORE, MD., May 14.-The Genral Conference of the M. E. Church, south, adjourned early to-day in order o leave the city for a trip to Annapoli At the session at the Fourth Regiment Armory, a communication was read which assumed that the United States has Cubi assumed that the United States has done or is about to secure it. The communication was from Rev. Dr. Lensing Burrows, secretary of the Southern Baptist Convention, which has just closed its session at Norfolk. It asks that action be taken by the conference similar to the following resolution, adopted by the Bap-

A resolution was presented and adopted setting apart Monday, May 16th, as a day of fasting and prayer for guidance in the election of Bishops and other connectional officers.

A KNOTTY QUESTION. A KNOTTY QUESTION.

The question of admission of Bishop Wilson, of Baltimore, was indirectly before the Conference to-day. The Bishop had appointed a man Sunday school agent at St. Louis. After the appoint ment, the man continued to preach at a church which he had already served four rears. The point was as to whether the man was evading the four-year limit law. The only way in which Bishop Wilson is concerned is in the possibility that he may have known such preaching was to be done when he made the appointment. The matter created a parliamentary Committee on Episcopacy.

on the Epworth League. BALTIMORE, MD., May 14.-Special .-Interest in the Methodist General Confere increases day by day. In the midst of war's alarms the city turns aside to attend the council of the messengers of peace, A curious contrast is seen in the building in which the eccesiastical gathering is held. On the upper floor the distinguished delegates are legislating for the peace and prosperity of Zion. On the lower floor the Fourth Regiment is preparing to march to the front. The floors of the various rooms are full of many interesting questions up before the body. The congratulatory message to President McKinley was passed, for-warded to him and a graceful and graclous response returned, but the papers have not told of the warm discussion that at last terminated in the adoption of the message. VIRGINIA MEMORIALS. There are more memorials from the Virginia Conference than possibly from any other.

Here is a partial list of them:

Memorial to authorize unordained
the sacrament and perform the rite of matrimony. Memorial in respect to puting the limit of the pastorial to Memorial to make certain changes in burial service. Memorial to limit burial service. Memorial to limit to term of the presiding eldership to eigh term of the pressing eldership to eight years successively. Memorial to make a certain changes in the law concerning Epworth League. EPWORTH LEAGUE. The most interesting and able discus-sion so far was on the report recommend-ing that the Epworth League have two general officers instead of one as now, these two officers to be secretary and editor. The discussion occupied the best part of two days and was quite warm and occasionally a little personal. Drs. Whitehead and Smith took part and on opposing sides. The former in favor of the report and the latter against it. The report and the matter against it. The report won the day, having been modi-fied by a substitute which gives the book committee power to employ editorial as-sistance for the general secretary. Here is Dr. Whitehead's speech:

I was very much disposed during th past year, and by my acquaintance wit the inward affairs of the Epworth Leagu and its paper, the cost of publishing and all that, to join Brother Wilson's read-lution very heartily, and to oppose this report. But I have been thinking earnground. (Applause). Not by anything that has been said, brethren. (Laughter). I do not mean to disparage Brothet Anderson's remarks. We have heard ter). I do not mean to disparage Brothe-Anderson's remarks. We have heard them all, expressions very forcibly and well put. But I have not been changed by that speech. But I feel like saying, as was said at Marengo when the Gen-eral came on the field and was asked what he thought of the situation; 'This fattle is lost but there is time enough what he thought of the situation. This battle is lost, but there is time enough to win another." and they went in and won it. Now there is a time when you have got to risk all. Brother Wilson puts the proof of it to-day. You have lost $11.000 already—sunk in the Epworth Era, You propose now to have two officers instead of one and to run the additional expense up to perhaps $25.000. We tional expense up to perhaps $25,000. We had better run the risk of $25,000 loss, or in the same ratio, the next quadrennium than to proceed in the same line that we than to proceed in the same line that we have proceeded on already.

We have lost one battle, but there is time enough to win another if we will charge with the dragoons and risk everything in the way of expense. There is need oftentimes to risk everything in changing men, and in the battle we must do this. We made a mistake at the last Careal Conference that nearly ruinlast General Conference that nearly ruin-ed us in this line. But let us clean out start in a new man, and run the whole line at the risk of expense, and line at the risk of expense, and we may win, and probably will, a new battle.

Dr. Smith's speech was the longest and possibly the strongest against the report.
Here is a little sample of his popular way of pleading his cause:
Mr. President, I sometimes find a good deal of wisdom in that book that we call
"Mother Goose." These things have survived because they contain things that are wise. And you will remember these ines:
There was a man in our town, and he was wondrous wise.
He sumped into bramble bush and

CHURCH PAPERS.

The bishops, in their address, advised that the Church control its press, and not leave the subject to personal greed or ambition. Dr. Hoss, in the "Paily," said this week: "Only a certain number of papers can reasonably expect to be well supported. It is as foolish to think of anything else as it would be to try of anything else as it would be to try of anything else as it would be to try to fatten half a dozen steers on a single acre of ground. Unless the spheres and rights of the several papers are carefully defined by law, collisions and misunderstandings between them will inevitably follow. It is by no means certain that the fittest will survive. Very often, in fact, the case will be otherwise. Every in fact, the case will be otherwise. Every reason why the Church should take and keep control of her pulpits, according to keep control of her pulpits according to a settled plan, is equally a reason why she should keep her regulating hand upon the newspapers." It is possible that some action will be taken along the lines of this editorial. The report of the commission to cor-rect any errors that may have crept some discussion, but the report quickly and almost unanimously ed. Dr. R. N. Sledd was one of the speakers on this subject. There are a number of Virginia visitors to the conference-preachers and lay-men. Revs. E. A. Potts, Reginald Potts, L. L. Betty, J. O. Babcock, C. C. Wer-tenbaker, John L. Clark, R. T. Wilson, George W. Wray, R. Finley Gayle, and a number of others are here. The following Virginia pasters have been appointed to preach on Sunday: J. Powell Garland, A. Coke Smith, J. J. Powell Garland, A. Coke Smith, J. J. Lafferty, and Dr. W. E. Edwards.

The election of two bishops and all the conventional officers occurs next Tuesday. Drs. E. E. Hoss and W. A. Candler seem to be in the lead for the epis-copacy. It is probable that there will be no election on the first bailot. Messre. Barber and Smith will be continued as book agents, and, if Dr. Morrison is not promoted, he and Dr. Lambeth will be continued as missionary secretaries. Dr. Palmore, of St. Louis, stands a good show for secretary of Church extension. Popular favor has not yet fallen on the right man for secretary of the Epworth League. The conference and visitors went yesterday on an excursion to Annapolis.
